THE AVALANCHE.

O. PALMER, Editor and Proprietor.

Entered at the Post Office at Grayling, Michigan, as second-class matter.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1892.

OBITUARY.

The Detroit Free Press reports the action of Brother Gardner's Line-Kill Club, in the following obituary notice:

"Men die an' ar' known no moar," began the President, as stillness reigned throughout the hall. "It an my painful duty to inform dis club dat de Hon. Cumbuck Slathers, an honorary member residing at South-Bend, has passed over de dark river. He has been twenty-ninth degree with us an' he was a member of de city next month an' enter upon a vigorous career of whitewashin'. Cumbuck Slathers was not a great man. He wasn't a man who would eber save de kentry or ruin it. He neber sot in de Legislature, an' he was no orator. He had no horn to toot an' no ax to grind. He was simply a plain man—one ob de millions ob common pebbles on de shore ob Time's great ocean waitin' to be gathered. Outside ob a life-size ob friends no one will miss him. Some-oder man will walk in de paths hollowed out by his footsteps. Some oder pebble will be washed upon de shore to take de vacant place, an' de big world will roll on jest de same as if such a man neber moved among us. As a club we do not believe in eulogies. Men an' what dey say, an' dyin' don't put angels wings on de shoulders ob sinners. Let me simply say ob our dead an' gone brother dat he used men flat as men need him, which is a principle dat knoves de golden rule sky-high any day in de week. I found him honest, truthful, charitable; an' he was a man who fully realized de fact, when form in an opium den ob men, dat while a ten fousan' dollah diamond kin be carried in de weest pocket, it takes a big vehicle to tote along a score ob em' ty bar's worth twenty cents apiece.

The usual resolution of sympathy was then passed, de brother's account squared on de books, an' de Glee Club sang:

Play de fiddles slow an' softly,
Let your voices all be low;
Death has reaped another harvest,
Chant de requiem soft an' low.

Through de dark an' misty valley,
O'er de river dark an' wide;
John' wid de great purchase
Marchin' to de oder side.

AN EDITOR'S DEBT.

In the years ago, when De Witt Clinton county, was the county seat, an' right smart village in de woods, on de way to be de editor of its weekly paper had some subscribers who paid in wood, others in produce, others in fur, and others yet who didn't pay at all. One of these latter class was named Lemon, and to squeeze anything out of him was next to impossible. He had excuses at his tongue's end for not paying, and the longer the debt stood the more reasonable his excuses seemed to his creditors. One day the editor met him on the street, and after a general greeting began on him with:

"Mr. Lemon, you have been owing me for two years."

"Yes, but I had bad luck in my sugar-bush."

"But you might have brought wood."

"So I should, but I broke two new axes and couldn't buy another."

"I offered to take it out in turnips and corn."

"I know, but the crows ate all my turnips and de injuns stole all my corn."

"Well, how are you getting along now?" asked the editor.

"First-rate."

"Have you a good run of sugar?"

"Yes."

"Corn doing well?"

"Splendid."

"Wheat all right?"

"Yes, all right."

"Well, if corn, wheat, potatoes and turnips are so good, and you keep well, and you have no losses, will you pay me in the fall?"

The farmer scratched his head and took a full minute to think it over before he replied:

"That's an honest debt and order be paid, but I won't positively agree to square up this fall until I know what sort of a corn season we are to have."

It is needless to say that he never paid.

THE DIVORCE BUSINESS.

Augusta Moore says in the Exchange:

"I took up a daily paper one day and saw nineteen divorces in it. I took up another and saw five. I went to a certain church and found there, in full communion, a woman who had two husbands. I visited the house of a leading member in the church, and found there a minister who had divorced one wife (a virtuous woman), and is married to another. I know of a minister who married a doctor to a woman for whom he had divorced his excellent wife. This was in Clinton, Ct. Time would fail me to particularize the cases of this sort that I know, and I live among the best people that there are in this world. These cases are as plenty everywhere as they are about me; indeed much more so in many localities. A friend writes to me from California that it is hardly safe to say 'divorce,' so many of the very nice people have two or three husbands or wives living. Now, is not this an encouraging state of things? Is it any wonder that some ministers are telling us how fast the world is growing better, how the very millennium is upon us? It is to be feared we can hardly exert just the moral influence that is used over the Mormons till the states are reformed. Professor Austin Phelps says: 'We are not half awake to the fact that by our laws of divorce and our toleration of the social evil, we are doing more to corrupt the nation's heart than Mormonism, combined.'"

OPEN TO A HORSE TRADE.

A Michigander who was traveling through Indiana last fall with a horse and buggy, drove up to a farm house one day with his patent washing machine and discovered that he had happened on a funeral. Under such circumstances he deemed it best to beat a retreat, but while unitching his horse one of the men came out and inquired:

"Want anything, stranger?"

"Well, no; I understand they are holding a funeral here."

"Yes, sort of a funeral. Got anything to sell?"

"I have a patent washing machine, but under the circumstances I don't feel like—"

"Never mind the circumstances," interrupted the man. "Jim's lost his wife, of course, but he's got all arrangements made to marry his hired girl two weeks from to-night, and if you've got anything there you want to throw in on a horse trade he won't let no funeral interfere with business. Let's airly in de day yet, and we do our burying around here any time before dark."

JUST LIKE ITS PA.

Mr. Blanket sat looking at the baby trying to think of the usual idiotic, unmeaning and unimportant things that people say about new babies, and at last, in a spasm of originality, remarked that "the baby had its father's complexion." Then they all sat and looked at the rich cardinal hues that made the wrinkled countenance of the unconscious infant glow like a mountain sunset, and nobody said anything until a feeble voice from the adjoining room said: "It was a good thing the baby had it naturally, then, as it required about 15 years steady practice and the co-operation of three scientific clubs and five political campaigns to acquire it." Then a sad quiet stole over the room again, only broken by the hard breathing of the baby's father, looking at the thermometer to see what time it was, while Mr. Blanket, feeling that he could add nothing to what had already been said, stole down stairs softly, whispering to himself about some fool, but the company couldn't catch the name and didn't know who he meant.—Burlington Hawkeye.

THE MINES OF MICHIGAN.

A comparatively small, narrow part of the State of Michigan, skirted its whole extent on the north by Lake Superior, and on the south in a large part by Lakes Michigan and Huron, and known as Upper Peninsula, in a little more than a century of its history has contributed to the realized mineral wealth of the country nearly $300,000,000 in ingot copper, pig iron and iron ores. Of this immense product the iron mines have furnished nearly $130,000,000. Last year the copper product was in value about $10,000,000 and the iron about $18,000,000, making a total of $28,000,000, while the promise for 1892, both for copper and iron, is that the product will be greater.—New York Mining Record.

ALL KINDS OF NEWS.

It's hope that keeps us up.
It's hope that keeps our memories green;
It's hope that makes our lives sublime,
It's hope that keeps us clean.

"The philosophy of a dog's running when a car is tied to his tail, instead of biting the string off, is not very clearly understood."

Ten years ago the total export of grain from all parts of the United States was 72,122,398 bushels; last year it amounted to 228,382,947 bushels.

Editor Ewing, of the Fyfe Lake Eye, was recently married to a Miss Pick of Cass county. He dropped her a line occasionally, and finally caught her.—Evening News.

Small-pox has appeared again in Pontiac and vicinity, one or two bona fide cases having been reported. The board of health have adopted all the precautions in their power to prevent the spread of the disease.

A gentleman greatly provoked a one-armed organ-grinder by asking him if he was a survivor of the late war. "Why, you fool!" exclaimed the irate musician. "Don't you see that I survived? Do I act as though I was killed in the late war?"

Heard outside of Philadelphia: "I thought, Miss S., that you hated that flirty minx. Yet you went up and kissed her." Miss S.: "I do hate her, and that's why I did it. Look at the big freckles on her cheek where I kissed the powder off."

We can always see the sunny side if we will, and sometimes the funny.—"This Maderia," said a physician to his gouty patient, "is really the cause of the whole difficulty." "Well, then, doctor," was the reply, "all your glass and we'll get rid of the cause as soon as possible."

An exchange has an article headed, "Get Hold of the Boy's Heart." That will do well enough if it is a girl you are advising, but we had rather get hold of a boy's collar with one hand and his pistol-pocket with the other. You can reason with a boy more that way.—Peck's Sun.

A lady writer finds fault with the manners of the King of Sweden, because his majesty scratched his royal head with fork at dinner. Some people are entirely too fastidious. Would the lady have had his majesty scratch his head with the leg of a chair?—Savannah Journal.

Mrs. Winn, living near the old fair grounds, presented her husband on Sunday last with triplets, two girls and a boy. The girls weigh five and four-and-a-half pounds respectively, and the boy six-and-a-half pounds; total, sixteen pounds. They are all doing well, and the father thinks himself "a bigger man than old Grant."

The man known all over the country by circus-goers as the armless man, who used his feet for everything which under ordinary circumstances his hands might have done, washed, combed his hair, fed himself, shaved himself, wrote a good hand, and cut paper with scissors, has just died. His age is given at 27, but those who remember him with Barnum 25 years ago will hardly set him down as young as that. However, he realized the Irishman's description as one of the handiest men with his feet that ever lived—or died.
